Ann Arbor Spark/LDFA presentation

Guest Bill Mayer gave a presentation about Ann Arbor Spark and the Ann Arbor LDFA. Mayer shared that Ann Arbor SPARK has a budget of $7.6 million and receives approximately $4 million annually from the Ann Arbor LDFA for business attraction and entrepreneurial activities. Mayer added that they use the funds in various entrepreneurial efforts, including boot camps, incubator improvements, mobility support programs, and ecosystem sponsorships to attract and retain talent. Their annual report for 2018-2019 is available here.

Mayer also highlighted that 10 percent of the Ann Arbor Downtown Development Authority goes to Ypsilanti. He added that SPARK invests $250,000 in marketing to amplify the community's entrepreneurial and attraction success stories to enhance the visibility to talent and investment world.

While answering Hasemann's question about the TIF capture distribution, Mayer explained that SPARK receives $4 million of the LDFA/SZ total TIF capture. LDFA/SZ uses the rest for infrastructure improvements. Mayer addressed Bakken's question by sharing that LDFA/SZ captured $100,000 in the beginning, which they spent on an entrepreneur boot camp. In response to Washburn, Mayer expressed that they have an excellent relationship with the University of Michigan, and both complement each other with their similar vision for the community.

Mayer recommended that the LRSZ board should invest in programs that retain and attract talent in the community.
